

HARRY E. WERKOWSKI OUTSTANDING CHAPTER AWARD

This award was created to honor the many contributions that Harry E. Werkowski made to the Indiana Association of Sanitarians (IAS) which is now our Environmental Health Association (IEHA). It was also to serve as a standard of the level of achievement that the local environmental health specialists could reach through their respective Chapters.

In addition to his service and dedication to IAS, Harry also served as the Northwest Chapter President. He gave the ultimate gift of his life. He suffered a fatal heart attack prior to the Annual Educational Conference that he chaired, despite repeated warnings about his heart condition. Knowing his love and dedication to IAS, his family requested that his Award be buried with him.

The intent of this award is to recognize the Chapter's contribution as a body to the Association. The intent is not to recognize individual member's or individual department's achievements.

ELIGIBILITY

All Association Chapters of the Indiana Environmental Health Association.

The Chapter shall have made outstanding (definition: having or showing ability well above average) contributions to the Association with efforts to strengthen and improve the quality of the Association through participation and Chapter commitment.

AWARD

A traveling plaque will be presented at the Fall Conference with each winning Chapter's name and award year added yearly. The plaque will be displayed at the Spring and Fall Conferences. Each active organization in the Chapter will be presented a framed certificate to display in their office.

The certificate shall read:
